DAY 02 OF 05

ANKLE RESET

02

The joint your knees are paying for.

GOAL
STABILITY

TIME
15–20 MIN

Build ankle strength, control, and stability for cutting, jumping, and landing. When ankles are stiff or unstable, the knees absorb what the ankles should handle — every landing, every cut, every push-off. That load compounds and breaks things down. Today trains the real system, not just taping over it.

WHY THIS DAY

The ankle holds up everything above it. Ground first. Whatever the ankle will not do, the knee and hip end up doing for it.

RESET BLOCK Range and sensation first

01 ANKLE ROCKS — KNEE OVER TOE

2 × 8 EACH SIDE

Slow drive forward. Knee tracks over the toe. Full range.

02 TIBIALIS RAISES

3 × 15

Stand against a wall. Pull your toes up as high as possible. Feel the shin working.

STABILITY BLOCK Single-leg control

03 SINGLE-LEG BALANCE

2 × 20 SEC EACH

Eyes open first. Slight knee bend. Stay still. Progress to eyes closed.

04 SLOW CALF RAISES

3 × 10

3 counts up, 3 counts down. Full range. Both legs, then single-leg if ready.

REACTIVITY BLOCK Light and springy

05 MINI POGO HOPS (LIGHT)

2 × 10

Quick and springy. Land soft. No heavy stomping — the ankles absorb, not the floor.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

↑ Ankles warming up instead of stiff ↑ Better balance and control ↑ Lighter, more reactive steps

FOCUS Move light, stay springy. Control every rep and landing. Some wobble is normal when balance is challenged. Keep a wall or counter in reach. If it turns to pain, stop.
